VERBAL DUEL IN COURT.

THREE JUDGES HEAR AN APPEAL.

MORTGAGE CASE DECISION IS CONTESTED.

LAWYERS DISAGREE.

A verbal duel between Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., and Mr. H. G. Sheldon characterised the opening of the Full Court of Appeal before three Judges at the Supreme Court this morning, these being Sir Peter Grain, Sir Joseph Kemp, and Mr. Justice Wood.

The case concerned a judgment delivered by Sir Henry Gollan, in an action brought by Li Po-kwai alias Li Kan, No. 1, Seymour Terrace, against Tsang Chuen, a partner in the Kam Chung Bank, No. 106, Queen's Road Central, and Li Ngai-ching, whom plaintiff claims as his son, although this is denied by the defence.

Plaintiff claimed to be the Crown lessee of certain lands and buildings which he transferred to himself under the name Li Kan and the second defendant by a deed of assignment on March 9, 1927, for a consideration of $16,000. Plaintiff declares, however, that he never intended his son to have any beneficial interest, the $16,000 was not paid and his son had no knowledge of the assignment at the time. Subsequently, it is alleged, the son mortgaged the property for $25,000 to first defendant and his present whereabouts are stated to be unknown.

Register Searched.

Plaintiff claimed an order that first defendant re-assign the property and a declaration that he (plaintiff) is entitled to the property free of the mortgage.

Sir Henry Gollan delivered judgment in favour of plaintiff on April 8, this year, and defendant is appealing against it.

Mr. H. G. Sheldon, instructed by Mr. F. X. D'Almada, senior, of Messrs. D'Almada and Mason, is for appellant, and Mr. Eldon Potter, K. C. together with Mr. F. C. Jenkin, instructed by Mr. E. Davidson, of Messrs. Hastings, Dennis and Bowley, is for respondent.

After reading Sir Henry Gollan's judgment, Mr. Sheldon said that as first defendant wanted to advance money on the property he went to see Mr. F. X. D'Almada, who searched the register and examined the memorials.

Mr. Potter said he would point out there was no evidence of that search and as Mr. D'Almada was not called as witness it had not been proved. Counsel continued that in the Court below they were very careful not to admit that Mr. D'Almada had done any searching because they wanted him to go in the witness box as it was desired to put a letter to him. That letter was written by his firm to plaintiff in the name of Li Kan, asking for production of deeds after the mortgage. It seemed strange, as it appeared to indicate that defendant knew plaintiff's alias was Li Kan. That was the reason why they were anxious for Mr. D'Almada to go into the witness box and it had never been admitted that a search was made.

Wrong Recollection.

Mr. Sheldon contended the case was quite clearly argued on the assumption by both sides that the memorials were searched by Mr. D'Almada. If that was to be traversed, it should have been traversed by another pleading in reply. Counsel further argued that Mr. D'Almada must have made a search, otherwise he would not have been able to prepare the mortgage document. There was not the slightest doubt that the case was argued from the beginning by both sides on the assumption that the register had been searched.

Mr. Potter replied he could only say that Mr. Sheldon was not then in the case which was conducted by Mr. Alabaster, but Mr. D'Almada was previously in the case. If Mr. Sheldon had been told by Mr. D'Almada that he (Mr. Potter) argued the case on that assumption—that was to say that no evidence of the search was required—then Mr. (Continued on Page 7).

THE TUBERCULOSIS SCOURGE.

QUERY WHETHER ANYTHING IS BEING DONE.

MR. LO'S QUESTIONS.

The tuberculosis scourge is again to come before the Sanitary Board at to-morrow's meeting, when Mr. M. K. Lo will ask the following questions:

"With reference to the Motion of the Board passed on the 18th February, 1930, in connexion with the scourge of Tuberculosis, will the Head of the Sanitary Department inform the Board:

(a) Whether the Motion has received the consideration of the Government.

(b) If so, what action (if any) the Government intends to take thereon.

(c) In particular, whether any decision has been come to in regard to the feasibility of providing some form of 'Poor Law' infirmary for the care of Chinese cases."

The question was lengthily discussed at the meeting on February 18th, when Mr. M. K. Lo moved the following resolution: "That this Board views with grave concern the increase of tuberculosis in the Colony and respectfully urges the Government to take prompt steps with a view to making due provision for the treatment of persons suffering from such disease, including the provision of a properly equipped Sanatorium.

An amendment was, however, proposed by the Hon. Dr. A. R. Wellington, and adopted by four votes to three, this being in the following terms: "The Board is much concerned at the continued high level of mortality from tuberculosis and urges the Government to consider if more effective steps can be taken to ensure so far as possible that conditions of residence in the Colony do not lend themselves to the aggravation or contraction of the disease, and to consider the feasibility of providing some form of 'Poor Law' infirmary for the care of Chinese cases."

DIVORCE ACTION DECIDED.

SHANGHAI JUDGE'S REFUSAL.

NOTICE OF APPEAL GIVEN BY PETITIONER.

TOEG CASE FEATURES.

Shanghai, July 16.

In H.M. Supreme Court yesterday Judge G. W. King gave his considered judgment in the divorce case Cecile Laval Toeg v. David Lionel Toeg, saying that in view of the circumstances he could not exercise the discretion of the court in favour of the petitioner, against whom adultery had also been proved.

Notice of appeal was given by Mr. Tycho Wing, counsel for the petitioner. Mr. A. M. Preston represented the respondent.

The Judgment.

In giving judgment, his Lordship said:

"This is a suit by petitioner for dissolution of her marriage, which took place on June 1, 1923, in the Registrar's office, at Hongkong, and of which marriage there was issue, one son born at San Francisco in March, 1925.

"The grounds for asking for the dissolution are acts of adultery committed by the respondent at Shanghai in May of this year.

"The petitioner before succeeding in her petition must satisfy the court as to the domicile of her husband and as to the acts of adultery alleged. Further, as she states in her petition that she herself has been guilty of sexual intercourse with a man other than her husband, she must show such a state of affairs as will induce the court to exercise its discretion in granting her petition.

The Parties.

"Before dealing with these matters it is desirable to say something with respect to the parties in this suit.

"The respondent, the husband, was born in Shanghai and is registered in this Consulate General as a British protected person; he is not a British subject.

"The petitioner, the wife, was born in Missouri, United States of America, and as her husband not being a British subject could not by marriage confer British nationality on her, she, it would seem likely, is still an American citizen.

Unhappy Marriage.

"The marriage between these two people would appear, except for the first two years, never to have been a happy one, and they separated in 1926, after that living together only briefly for brief periods. In 1927 the petitioner obtained a divorce in the Second Judicial Court of the State of Nevada in and for the County of Washoe. All I need say about this divorce is that however binding it is on the petitioner it does not affect the position of the respondent in respect of his marriage at Hongkong in 1923.

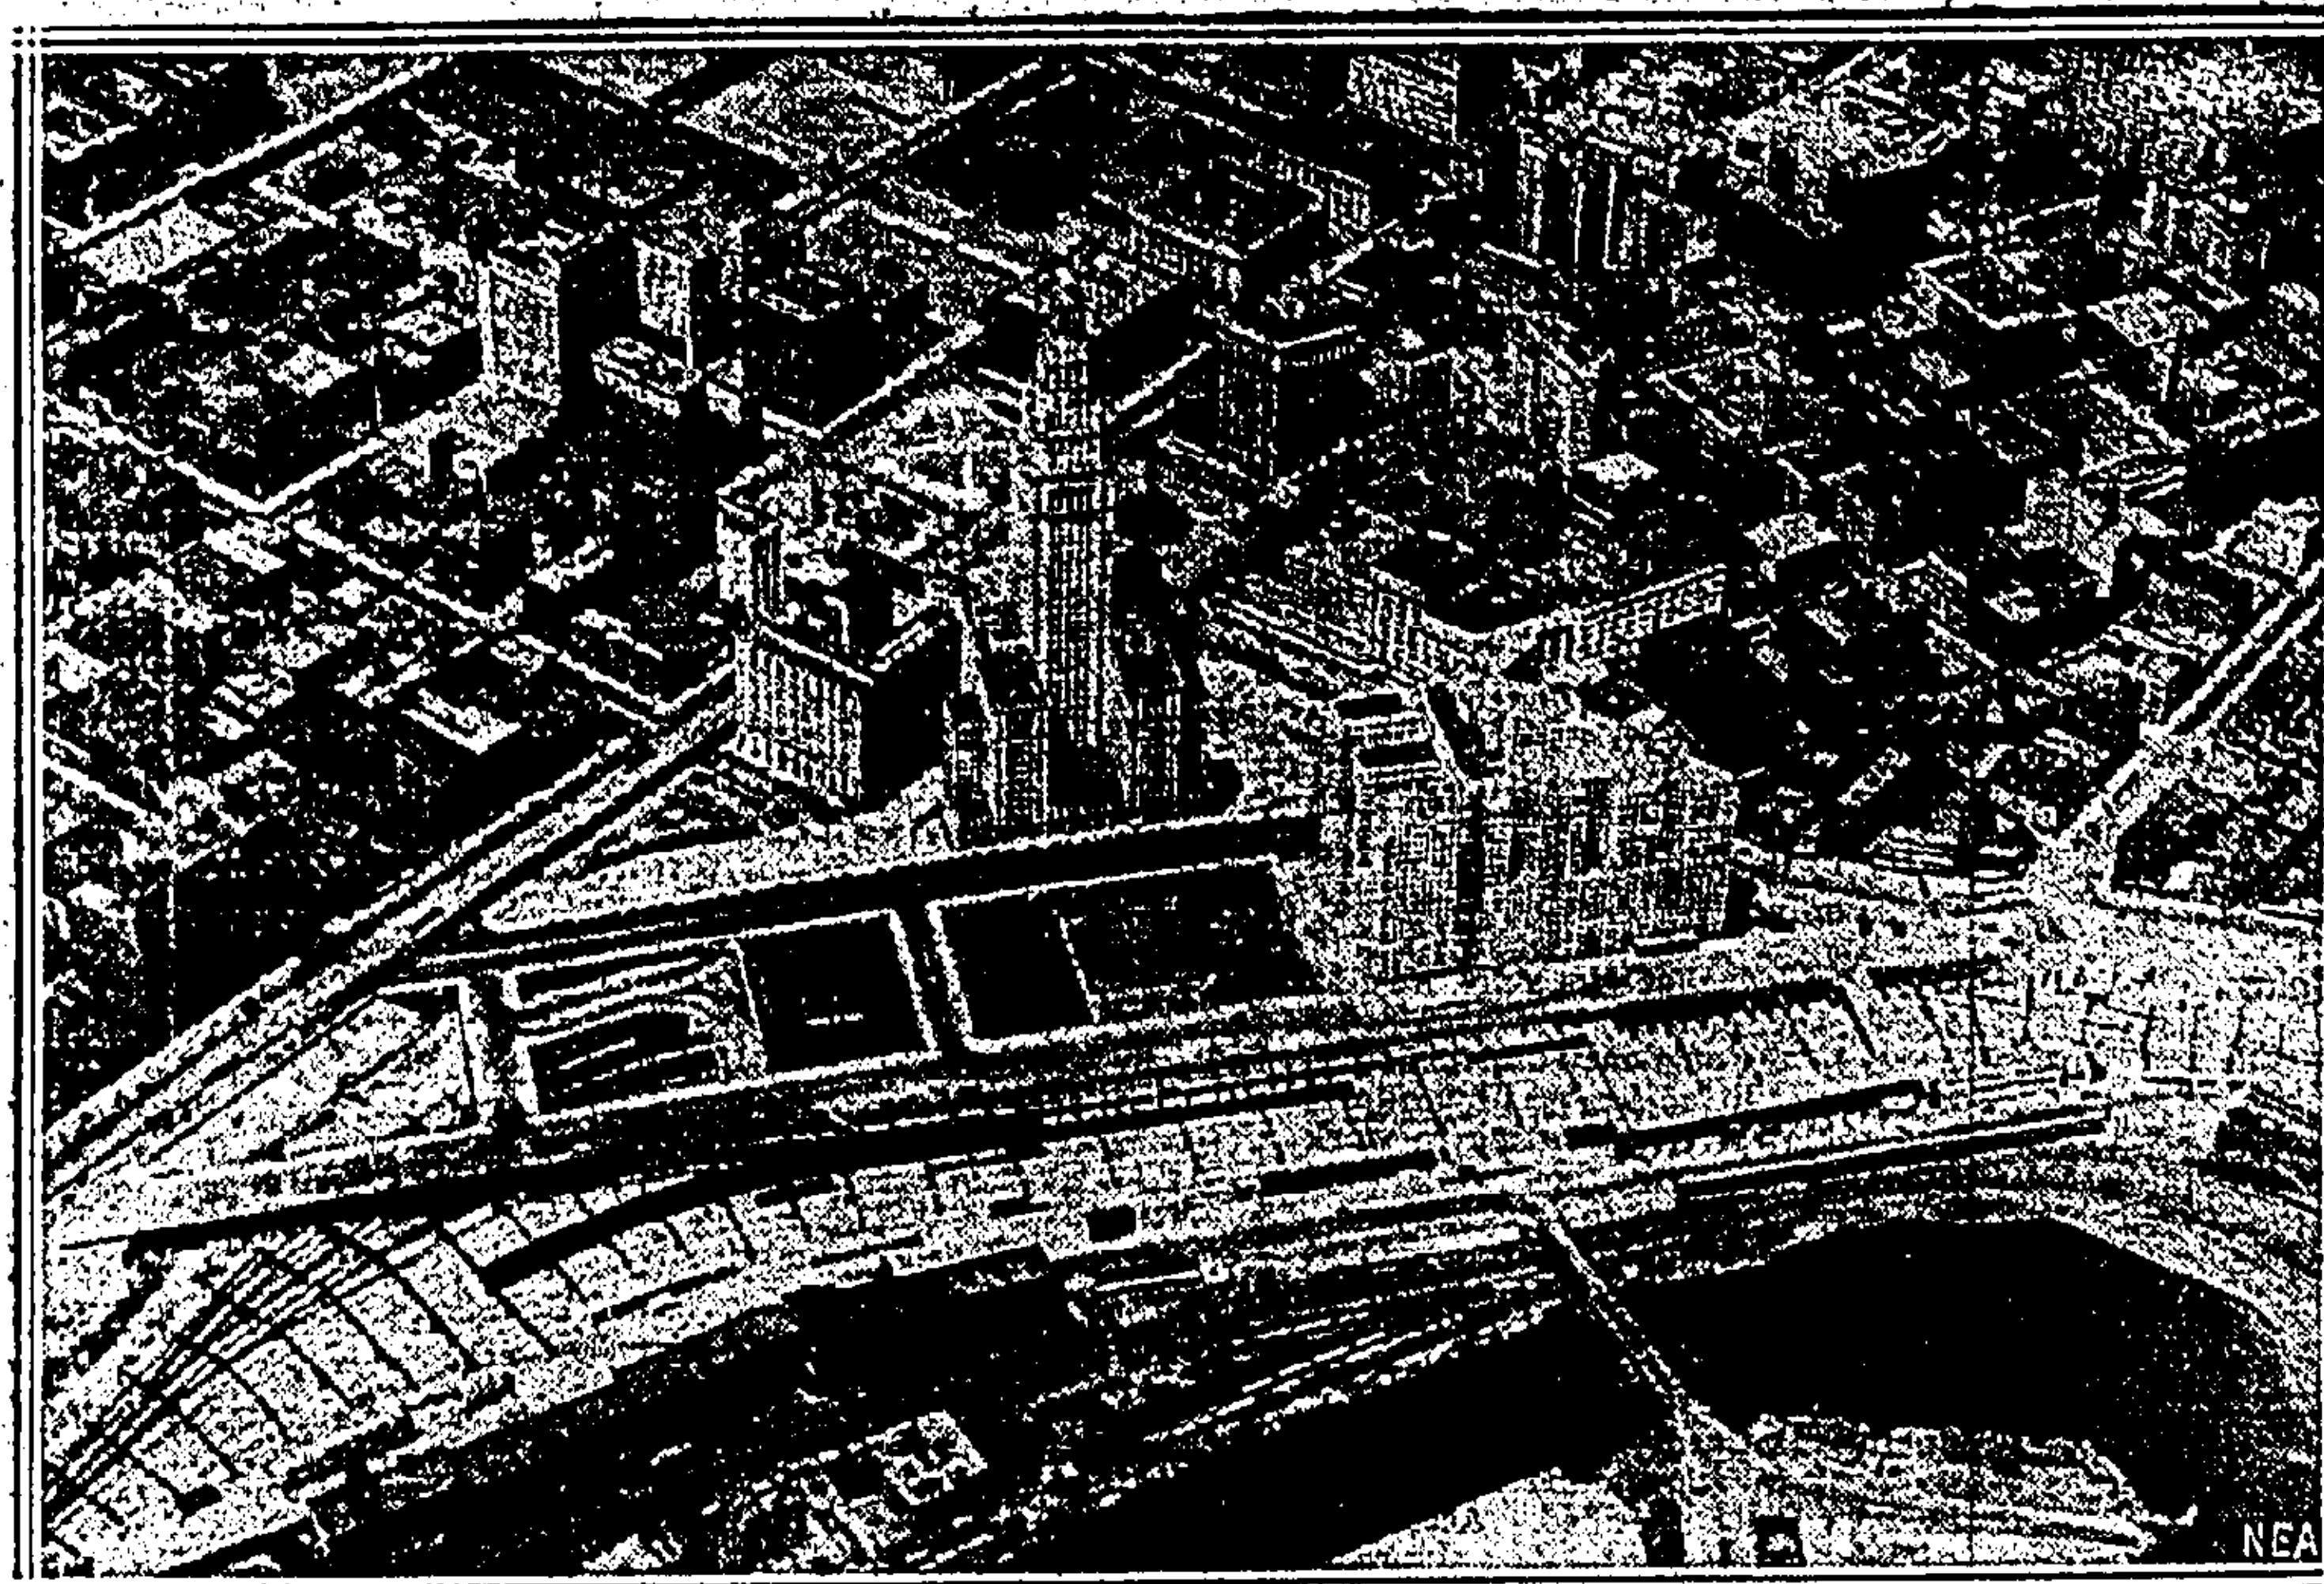

"To turn now to the matters on which the petitioner must satisfy the court, namely, domicile of the respondent and the alleged acts of adultery by him.

"The delegates are attending a Government reception to-morrow night, and there will be a Garden Party at Windsor Castle when the Congress follows in ten days' time. A tour round the British Isles has been arranged for the delegates.—British Wireless.

Misconduct Proved.

"The petition set out various acts of adultery, but evidence was only offered on two acts, on the nights of May 9-10 and May 12-13 at 187 Bubbling Well Road, Shanghai, in flat No. 47. The evidence of Mr. Luchich was satisfactory enough as to these acts, but it was not supported by the Chinese house boy employed in the flat. However, any doubts I might have entertained are dispelled by the letter of the respondent to the petitioner and dated August 22, 1929. I am satisfied that the respondent has committed adultery.

"It remains then to determine the question whether the court should exercise its discretion in favour of the petitioner, she having committed adultery

WHEN you use Nestle's Cream, you need never worry as to its condition. In the hottest weather you know it's fresh.

And remember Nestle's Pure Thick Cream is not a substitute for cream. It is the actual cream itself with this advantage—it is untouched by hand from the moment it leaves the cow until you open the tin.

There is an interesting Recipe Book which we should like to send you entitled "The Cream of Creams." A postcard request will bring this by return. Will you write for it now?

Powder Shades.

COMPLEXIONS TO MATCH CLOTHES.

To tone with the leaf green and royal blue dresses fashion has decreed we shall wear this summer, two new shades of powder, rouge and eyelid cosmetic have been made up by a well-known Dover-street beauty specialist.

"Trying" Colours in Vogue.

Both these dress-colours are trying to the complexion. Both are apt to make the skin look pale and show the wrinkles we wish to hide. The new coral rouge to go with green colouring, when properly applied, gives the face a natural, healthy glow.

The rouge should be applied with great care, taking into consideration the shape of the cheekbones, nose, and mouth. Even the style of hairdressing has a bearing on the placing of the rouge. A lesson from a specialist on "making up" is worth several beauty treatments.

An orange mauresque powder has colouring. Now that even wide-brimmed straw hats expose the forehead, care should be taken to powder to the roots of the hair and round to the ears.

A fascinating but not vivid green powder for the eyelids enhances the beauty of the eyes. The nail varnish is also coral in tone, and is not so startling as hitherto...

For the blue dresses the new delicate roseleaf rouge gives the most becoming colouring. Dark women should choose a deeper shade of the same rouge.

The eyelids may be darkened with a blue, which can be had in two different shades to suit the individual eyebrows and lashes. A blue dress can make one look very pale, and the introduction of a pink into a mauresque powder combats this. Orange mauresque used in conjunction with a medium lipstick will be found most suitable.

Coral Nail-Varnish.

The nails could be varnished with a coral tint, but the same roseleaf colour as the rouge would give the better effect.

When wearing green, a coral indelible lip pencil should be used. For the blue ensemble, medium or roseleaf can be used to suit the individual taste.

A cloud pink evening dress of chiffon has a shoulder spray made of the corded chiffon that gives the appearance of ostrich feathers.

To-day's Recipe.

CHILLED ORANGE SOUFFLE.

Would you care to copy Lady Louis Mountbatten's all-black dining-room? I think not. But the craze for black in decoration has left traces in those little touches which mean so much.

Picture the too-feminine room in grey and white and rose. Add a black striping on doors and woodwork, a black and white striped cushion or two, and a circular mirror framed in black glass. Result, modernity in a novel guise. Then as an antidote to the cold aloofness of the blue room with its blue curtains, have a black helmet to draw up the black pattern of a grey and blue carpet. This is the subtlest of treatments—and the most successful in a garish room.

Silhouettes.

Silhouettes lend a touch of classic simplicity to frieze, walls, lampshade, or cushion. Strike one additional note of black to link them to the scheme. Suppose the walls are grey-mauve and upholstery in soft green. Have one yellow cushion with black silhouettes, and another, black with bold mauve, orange, or green cut-outs. The white-walled room has white, with black cushions, varied by one or two in black, with white, and used in different parts of the room. Never overdo the use of black. In the medium-light room it becomes theatrical, in the dull one, overpowering.

Black has even invaded the dining-table. Jade, orange or mauve linen is edged with black for mats and centrepieces, and a black bowl of flowers or fruit makes the perfect foil for tinted glass to tone with the linen. When a white cloth is used, try a margin effect with one touch of vivid contrast. The effect is surprisingly pretty, though it can also be made refreshingly bizarre for party or bridge-tea.

Black and Azure Blue.

Bedrooms as a rule do not welcome black, but the bathroom looks best in black and white, or in a bright shade allied with black fittings and floor-coverings. Blackbirds fly gaily round a blue room and perch on azure towels and bathmats. Black jars and mirror frames are in keeping with many schemes, but when black is used, beware of bows and too-fragile curtains. A certain unity is demanded of the scheme which is to use black to its best advantage. Contrasts must be sharp, even daring, for inapop pink and washed-out greens and blues allied to blues simply look ridiculous.

Do not be afraid to use black. Every room which uses pure, clear colour is all the better for a touch of its tonic darkness. It draws the most difficult, haphazard scheme together in a way which will astonish anyone who has not yet proved its decorative value.

YANGTSZE "REDS" ACTIVE.

STEAMERS FIRED ON BUT UNDAMAGED.

Hankow, July 19.

A number of outrages perpetrated on foreign shipping in the vicinity of Hankow are reported to-day. Recently vessels have been fired on by guns manned by the "Reds" in the neighbourhood of Wusuch.

The latest victims are the a.s. Chungking, the Hongkong agents for which are Messrs. Butterfield and Swire, and the a.s.s. Kung Wo, whose local agents are Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Co., Ltd. It is reported that these vessels were fired on, but were not struck by any of the shells.

The s.s. Chungking, a steel-screw vessel of 2,171 tons, is owned by the China Navigation Co., Ltd. Constructed at Taikoo Dockyard in 1914, she is a single-decked vessel with a length of 235 feet and a breadth of 44.1 feet.

The s.s. Kung Wo, built by the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Co. in 1921 for the Indo-China Steam Navigation Co., Ltd., is of 4,636 tons, length 350 feet and beam 43.5 feet.

THE GROWING POWER OF OFFICIALS.

A matter, not without its interest to Hongkong, which is arousing considerable comment at Home just now is the growing power of permanent officials, which has been increased to such an extent that their decisions and rulings are at times beyond even the law of the land. During recent years, a practice has grown up, and is being rapidly expanded, whereby Parliament delegates to Government Departments very wide powers of legislation. Acts are passed in skeleton form, and the permanent officials fill in the blanks. Sometimes these Acts give the officials the sole right to determine issues raised by those who consider that an injustice has been done, this being exemplified by the following, which is taken from one such Act:—"An order made by the Minister under this provision shall be final and not subject to appeal to any Court, and, shall, on the application of the Minister, be enforceable by writ of mandamus."

In defence of the tendency indicated, it has been contended that Parliament has not the time to do otherwise than delegate legislative power; that, even if it had the time, it has not the requisite aptitude for the work; and that, after all, it is not the task of Parliament but of the executive, to govern the country. But these excuses surely cannot justify the wide departure from traditions in the matter of local and national government, and it is not surprising that men of the type of Lord Hewart, the Lord Chief Justice, should, as they have done, express great anxiety at the changes which are taking place. The danger is that the country may lose all but the forms of self-government and have set over them a body of men whose will and whims are beyond question and control. One commentator on this subject disputes the submission that these enlargements of the powers of officials are due to the circumstances and needs of the time; he suggests that it is the deliberate and persistent endeavour of permanent officials to gather to themselves arbitrary control, so that they may be placed above mere Acts of Parliament. The situation is all the more serious when we remember that Britain is the most liberty-loving nation in the world and that her institutions have been copied all over the globe as being examples of what national and local government should be. Under present tendencies, there is being built up a bureaucratic system which is opposed to every democratic principle and which threatens to extinguish hard-won public liberties and safeguards.

Here in Hongkong, of course, we are accustomed to government by officials, in the sense that all legislation emanates from the Government and that our Legislature has an official majority. It is true that at times the Government has been known to pay heed to public opinion, as voiced by our Unofficials, to the extent of dropping contentious measures, but we have recently had a striking example in the other direction, in which the Unofficial view was completely over-ridden by Officialdom. At Home, despite the tendencies to which we have directed attention, the public can use its influence by returning to Parliament men of whose views they approve and who may be in the position of using their influence in such a way as to throw out objectionable measures or to insist on safeguards in such laws as are passed. The elected representatives of the people have, however, to be always on their guard, for this granting of powers to permanent officials is liable to go by default and the danger only realised when it is too late. The "skeleton Act" evil is one with which we in this Colony are all too fully acquainted, the right to make regulations under Ordinances and to delegate powers to officials being all too often vested in the Governor-in-Council. This is a matter that needs constant watching, and we should like to feel that our Unofficials are alive to the dangers of the system.

M. Briand's Plan.

Britain's reply to M. Briand's memorandum on the proposed Federation of Europe is distinctly non-committal in tone but it is clearly shown that Britain does not embrace the plan with open arms and give unqualified support as some of the other nations have done. The cautious policy adopted by Great Britain is the only one possible in view of the ramifications of the proposal and there will be much support for the view that M. Briand's ideal can be effectively secured by adopting the proposals to bring them fully within the framework of the League of Nations. It is now certain that Great Britain will reserve her considered comment on the plan for a later date. At present she has merely conceded to the French wish that she should send a return Note by the middle of July and is careful to point out that the comments and suggestions made at this stage must be regarded as preliminary and tentative. In essence M. Briand's plan is an attempt to harmonise the Continental conception of European peace, sanctioned juridically and militarily by the peace treaties, with the Anglo-Saxon contention that military sanction tends to defeat its object. Now it happens that the League of Nations itself is engaged in a serious investigation of the possibility of reconciling the Anglo-Saxon notion symbolised by the "Kellogg" Pact with the Continental notion symbolised by the sanction clauses of the League Covenant. In form M. Briand's plan makes no provision for "sanction" and to that apparent extent breaks away from the Continental tradition. But in so far as M. Briand subordinates his plan to the Covenant and expressly submits that it should be regarded as a supplementary instrument to the League, it follows that the proposed "federal union" would borrow its sanction from Geneva. M. Briand now has the tentative views at any rate of the Governments which he has approached and would do well to let matters rest here for a time. The subject is one which requires the greatest consideration by all countries concerned and raises issues of the highest importance. Any detailed discussion should now be reserved until the autumn when it can be merged into the "Pact and Covenant" discussion then examples of what national and local government should be. Under present tendencies, there is being built up a bureaucratic system which is opposed to every democratic principle and which threatens to extinguish hard-won public liberties and safeguards.

It is understood that she will go into dock for repairs there and will probably sail for Hongkong as soon as is convenient.

WHO WAS—?

Mephistopheles.

Nowadays we do not trouble our heads much with thinking on demons and the hosts of Satan; and Mephistopheles means little more to us than a figure of opera or pantomime.

The people of the Middle Ages were more credulous. To them Mephistopheles was a real, if invisible, character, a fiend of infinite power and malice, one of the great seven devils, and second only to Satan among the legions of the fallen angels.

He is mentioned in many plays, but in the greatest of them all, Goethe's "Faust," he symbolises not exactly the spirit of evil, but the spirit of mockery and destruction. It was Goethe's idea that the growth of civilisation entails a breaking-down of the old.

The remains of junks have been seen floating in Hainan Straits for the last few days, and in some cases men have been picked up clinging to pieces of wreckage. The latest is the report of Capt. A. N. Taylor, master of the s.s. Chinhuia, which left Holhew on July 18. Whilst passing through Hainan Strait, this steamer rescued five men from a wrecked junk on July 15.

This vessel encountered heavy weather most of the way from Holhew, arriving here at 5.45 p.m.</p

THE KING'S PRIZE.

WON FOR FIRST TIME BY A LADY.

London, July 19.

The King's Prize at Bisley has been won for the first time in history by a woman competitor. This honour has been gained by Miss Marjorie Foster of the Women's Legion, who returned a score of 230 points.

Before 8,000 spectators at the Stadium here yesterday the South China Touring Team defeated the Selangor Chinese by three goals to one.

Selangor were the first to attack and a fine centre by Lal Kong was just cleared. The tourists repiled by bursting through, and a great shot from Kwok Lun just missed the goal.

Both goals were bombarded in turn and after twelve minutes play to qualify, Lieut. Andrews of the 17th London Regiment Territorials led the field at the end of the second stage with a score of 147 out of a possible 160, thereby winning the silver medal.

At this stage Miss Marjorie Foster, who is the only woman competitor ever to enter the final 100, was three points behind Lieut. Andrews. To-day she surprised everybody by putting up a splendid performance, returning a score of 130 and thus winning with a total of 230. She was heartily congratulated upon her fine achievement.—Reuter and British Wireless.

SOUTH CHINA WIN.

TOURISTS OUTPLAY SELANGOR CHINESE.

Kuala Lumpur, July 14.

Before 8,000 spectators at the Stadium here yesterday the South China Touring Team defeated the Selangor Chinese by three goals to one.

Selangor were the first to attack and a fine centre by Lal Kong was just cleared. The tourists repiled by bursting through, and a great shot from Kwok Lun just missed the goal.

Both goals were bombarded in turn and after twelve minutes play to qualify, Lieut. Andrews of the 17th London Regiment Territorials led the field at the end of the second stage with a score of 147 out of a possible 160, thereby winning the silver medal.

At this stage Miss Marjorie Foster, who is the only woman competitor ever to enter the final 100, was three points behind Lieut. Andrews. To-day she surprised everybody by putting up a splendid performance, returning a score of 130 and thus winning with a total of 230. She was heartily congratulated upon her fine achievement.—Reuter and British Wireless.

SENSITIVE GIRL ATHLETE.

DEATH DURING OPERATION FOR DISFIGUREMENT.

London, July 19.

Complaints about a disfigurement which led to the death of a girl athlete were described at an inquest at Southwark on Miss Nellie Barratt (19), of Barry-avenue, Stamford Hill, N.

The girl's father said that she was a typist-secretary, who enjoyed swimming, rowing and cycling.

On her chest she had a swelling which affected her so far as her personalty was concerned, and she complained that people were looking at her and passing remarks.

Mr. Barratt handed some photographs of the girl to the coroner (Dr. Waldo), who remarked that she was a fine-looking girl.

"Here she is," he added, "padding her own canoe."

Other evidence showed that the girl became a private patient at Guy's Hospital. She was placed under chloroform and ether, and died when the operation had been completed.

Sir Bernard Spilsbury, who made a post-mortem examination, said that the thymus gland behind the breast bone, which should have disappeared, was present and enlarged.

Death was due to syncope from a condition known as status lymphaticus, accelerated by the administration of an anaesthetic.

Dr. Waldo: The growth would be unsightly to a young woman?—Yes.

Sir Bernard added that a person suffering from status lymphaticus would be liable to die from any slight shock.

Recording a verdict of death by misadventure, Dr. Waldo said that with a view to preventing death under anaesthetics, he thought it would be a good thing if the Medical Research Committee dealing with the subject co-operated more closely with coroners.

CHURCHMEN'S ATTACK ON DIVORCE.

BISHOPS ASKED FOR COUNSEL.

Forceful criticism of the present situation with regard to divorce was heard at the sitting of the Church Assembly at Church House, Westminster.

Mr. Athelstan Riley, vice-president of the English Church Union, moving a resolution, calling upon the archbishops and bishops to consider the position, and "to issue counsel to the laity as to their social relations with persons divorced by the State Courts and contracting fresh alliances," said.

The Inspector said that the children rushed to the exit doors on either side of the stage after seeing smoke. These exits led to a short flight of steps down to a double exit door fitted with push bars, which had found very stiff, but workable.

"The children appear to have got the door partly open," he says, "and outside they were confronted by a collapsible gate, which was pulled across and closed, and to this fact the great loss of life was due.

"There appear to have been only two attendants in the auditorium, and the serious lack of attendants may have contributed directly to the magnitude of the disaster."

"There appears to be no doubt that the ground floor of the hall was allowed to become overcrowded and that children were standing in the gangways between the seats."

Several points came to the Inspector's notice which pointed to laxity on the part of the management. He believes that smoking took place in the enclosure and the re-winding room.

He refers to the fact that the re-winding room, which contained a gas meter, a gas joint, and electrical apparatus, was unsuitable for housing such things. The operator's box—6ft. 6in. by 5ft. 3in.—was much too small and cramped.

THROUGH THE MIRE.

"In every rank of society, we church people are present at marriages which we know are being undertaken lightly and wantonly by those who are very doubtful Christians. The Church is now being dragged through the mire."

"We cannot go on as we are being parties to a national rupture of the marriage bond," Mr. Riley added.

Mrs. Boustead (Basingstoke), Central President of the Mothers' Union, seconding, pleaded "for that large number of young people, swept as most of them are into the light thinking and easy tolerance

VISION OF LONDON LIVENED-UP.

BOULEVARD CAFES NOT COMING YET.

Mr. Lansbury, First Commissioner of Works, has been obliged, for the time being, to drop his scheme for establishing boulevard cafes in Hyde Park.

There are obstacles which render the scheme impracticable at present, he said. But before the next Office of Works contracts are entered into he proposes to go thoroughly into the question of providing refreshments on attractive lines in the London parks.

"All our arrangements for open-air entertainments need livening up, he said. He added, he could never understand why restaurant proprietors do not allow the public to take food and drink outside their premises. Why did they not dispense with a part of their shop-fronts, so that people could sit in the open-air, as in Paris?

The fickle English climate was suggested as a reason.

"They have a fickle climate in Paris, too, haven't they?" retorted Mr. Lansbury, "but they adopt ways and means of overcoming it."

Mr. Lansbury said that he would like to see resorts in London similar to the German beer gardens, and all refreshment places so constructed that a man could take his wife and children to them. He also advocated open-air theatres, remarking that in the matter of al fresco entertainment, Russia was miles ahead of England, and even Germany could give England points in this direction.

Closing the parks at night he characterised as tomfoolery.

DANCING JUDITH

CORALIE STANTON. and
HEATH HOSKEN.

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

Judith Grant, beautiful Greenwich Village artist's model and dancer, shares her apartment with Clarissa Stoney, known as Clarissa, a beautiful girl who lost her memory seven years ago when Alan Steyne, artist, her lover, abruptly disappeared and who has been affected mentally ever since. She is a real artist, but she is not. Bastien Dumont, another artist, brings him to Chummy, but Chummy fails utterly to recognize him, and a doctor tells her that she probably will never regain her memory. Steyne has an inherited amnesia, memory make him fairly prosperous, provides medical attention for his former sweetheart and tries to bring her memory back to her, but she is still amnesia. She is very interested in Judith than in Chummy. Finally, he tells Judith frankly that he is not in love with Chummy, explaining that he had been fascinated with her in the old days, but that he has not recovered that old day appearance would affect her as it did. He cannot marry her, he says, unless she recovers her memory and feels that she is in honour bound to do so.

CHAPTER V.

A week later Alan Steyne came into the Cafe Turc, where Judy was eating her sausage sandwich after another exhausting morning with Max Dickbroad.

"I say, will you have dinner with me tonight and go to a show?" he asked eagerly.

"Can't," the girl replied. "Chummy's got another cold—bad one."

"Oh, but couldn't you come alone?" His voice was a little more eager still. "It's my birthday."

"I couldn't leave Chummy," she said.

"But couldn't you get someone to stay with her? There's that nice girl in your building—"

"Clara Jenks!" Judy's voice trembled a little. She was struggling between desire and a sense of duty.

"Well, I dare say she would stay with Chummy. She's out of a job just now. But—"

Judy heaved several sighs as she went up the last of the seven flights to Chummy's room. On the way she had called on Clara Jenks, and had asked her if she would sit with Chummy and get her some supper. Clara agreed with alacrity. She was the soul of good nature—a struggling artist, a born comedienne who never got a part that suited her. At the moment she was out of work.

Judy then told Chummy of the invitation. Chummy was delighted, and said that of course Judy must go.

"He wanted you to go, too," Judy replied emphatically. "We shan't have half such a good time, Chummy, darling!"

She hugged her friend. Chummy was very hot, and said she wanted to sleep.

She felt feverish herself. Her heart beat very fast and loud. It was the first time she had ever known that she had a heart. Her conscience was troublesome, too. She knew that she wanted to go to dinner and a show with Alan Steyne more than she had ever wanted to do anything in all her life; and she was glad that Chummy had a cold!

It was all instinctive. Judy was easily incited, and that strange flutter in her breast was a new sensation.

Judy had only one dress suitable for such an occasion. It had belonged to Max Dickbroad's sister. He had painted Judy in it, and had told her to keep it. It was golden, with a wondrous sash of flame and emerald. The neck was cut round, and it had tiny sleeves of gold lace. Above each ear Judy fastened a flame-coloured velvet poppy.

Over her dress she threw a black-velvet cloak of rather tawdry material, but made in a fashionable shape. Her only pair of white gloves were soiled, so she carried them in her hands.

She went in to be admired by Chummy. Steyne ran up the stairs, punctual to the moment. He greeted Chummy, and they went off immediately.

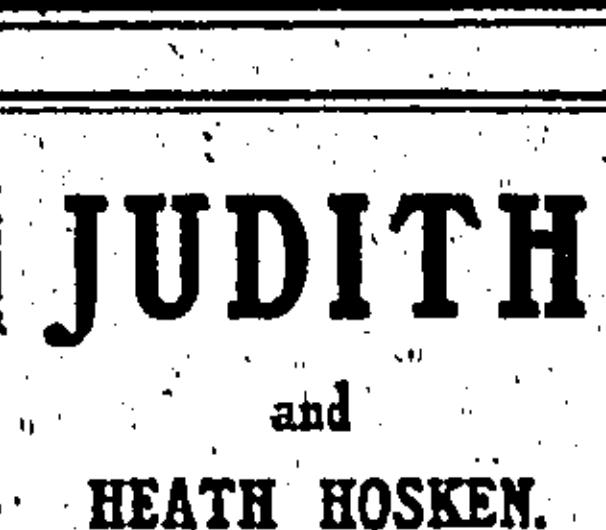

They dined at a smart restaurant where Judy had never been before. It was a real gala night. There were violets on the table, and they drank champagne. The lights were shaded with some blue stuff that looked like the sky. The women wore wonderful clothes. At the table next to them a white-haired woman, with black eyes and a rose-petal skin, was wearing some pearls that made Judy's big eyes nearly start out of her head.

At first the girl's thoughts were all with the absent Chummy; but gradually, under the influence of the food and the wine and the soft music, Chummy's image faded, and the luxuriant surroundings all seemed to merge into the handsome face and the laughing eyes on the other side of the small table. She had little consciousness of what they talked about. She knew that it was delightful talk—rather silly, probably, but it made a glow round her heart.

Then it was time to go on to the opera house. Steyne gathered up the violets on the table and gave them to her. As they passed out of the restaurant he said, with a touch of shyness in his low voice:

"You are looking most awfully well tonight."

As she put on her cloak, Judy looked at herself in a mirror. Her TYphoon's Toll in Japan.

DAMAGE OF HUNDRED MILLION YEN.

Tokyo, July 19. Fuller reports of the Kyushu typhoon indicate that the deaths and injuries among land dwellers are relatively small in view of the storm's ferocity, owing to ample warning having been given.

About 30 persons are known to be dead ashore, but it is feared that the total has been greatly swelled by sea tragedies.

Even about due warning saved scores, for although hundreds of boats, mostly fishing craft sank, the majority of these were tied up in the harbour and their crews were safe ashore.

Fairly comprehensive reports are available from Fukuoka and Nagasaki Prefectures.

Houses Destroyed.

At Fukuoka 11 persons were killed ashore and 21 are missing. Eighty-eight were injured and 1,000 houses were destroyed and 10,000 damaged.

At Nagasaki, where the wind attained a velocity of 112 miles an hour, it is reported that 600 houses were destroyed and 1,800 damaged, and over 200 boats, mostly fishing sampans, sunk.

Keishonando Province and Korea, it is believed, were seriously stricken, but no details are forthcoming, communications being wiped out.—Reuter.

The Death-roll.

Tokyo, July 19. A partial accounting of the ravages of the typhoon in Kyushu was compiled to-night from police reports, although it is still incomplete. Seventy people are known to be dead while over a hundred are missing. The injured total 737 while 4,200 houses were destroyed and over 12,000 damaged. A hundred boats either sank or are missing.

In the Nagasaki Prefecture 37 people were killed and 460 injured, while in the Fukuoka Prefecture seventeen people lost their lives in the typhoon. In addition 90 are missing and the injured number 140. This part of the country suffered the worst in the storm.

Early estimates of damage have been compiled for two Prefectures. In Kagoshima Prefecture it is estimated that the damage totals 19,000,000 yen, and in the Nagasaki Prefecture 20,000,000 yen. This indicates that the total loss will probably exceed 100,000,000 yen.—Reuter.

Tale of Death and Destruction.

Tokyo, July 20. Fragmentary reports from Korea show that the typhoon swirled across the Southern and Eastern shores of that already stricken peninsula with its fury little abated. Trustworthy estimates are not available owing to the disruption of communications, but it is known that Keishonando, Keishonoko and Chuseihokudo provinces were severely lashed.

A message from Fusan says that the tale of death and destruction probably indicates how the majority of ports fared: five dead, 17 injured, 85 houses destroyed, 38 houses badly damaged and 55 boats sunk.

When the typhoon struck, Southern Korea was still mourning hundreds of dead in the recent rains and floods of which the official death roll is published today: 253 known to be dead, 252 missing, believed to be dead, 155 injured, 5,400 houses destroyed, 20,000 homeless.—Reuter.

His Excellency, accompanied by the District Officer, Assistant District Officer and A.D.C., attended a reception given in his honour at Fanling by the Chinese Elders.

After the reception His Excellency drove out to Sha Tau Kok.

According to Capt. H. O. Udden, the ship left Bangkok on July 2, when the weather was none too promising. The ship called at Kohsichang, being several hours late at that port, but after leaving the sea was very rough and strong headwinds made the usual progress impossible.

When Capt. Udden discovered that a typhoon lay between the ship and Hongkong, and as the heavy wind had made unusual inroads on the coal supply, he decided to make for Yulenkang Bay, which is the most southerly point on Hainan Island.

On arriving at the bay no coal could be obtained and wood had to be collected from the hillside, thus causing considerable delay to the vessel, while the weather outside continued to be very rough.

When they had succeeded in obtaining as much wood as they wanted anchor was weighed and the weather changed for the better, remaining fair for the rest of the trip to Hongkong.

According to information gathered the local agents of the s.s. Cheung On, the vessel had a cargo of about 2,000 tons of rice. She carried a crew of sixty Chinese.

She is owned by a Chinese shipping company in Shanghai and has been on runs between the North China ports as a cargo vessel for a number of years.

The Cheung On has a gross tonnage of about 2,200 tons with a cargo capacity of 1,900 tons.

The speed of the vessel is put at 0½ knots per hour.

The fact that there is no wireless station in Hainan Island or on the Cheung On itself rendered it impossible for the skipper to get in touch with Hongkong. The ship suffered no damage.

WOMAN'S SUCCESS AT BISLEY.

WINS THE KING'S PRIZE BY ONE POINT.

HISTORIC VICTORY.

London, July 20.
For the first time in the history of the Bisley Rifle Meeting, the King's Prize was won yesterday by a woman, Miss Marjorie Foster, of the Women's Legion. She made a score of 230 points.

Miss Foster's nearest rivals were Lieutenant Eccles, of the Seaforth Highlanders, with 279, and Lieutenant Andrew, London Regiment, and Quarter Master Sergeant Parker, Army Service Corps, with 278 each. The prize is £240 and a gold medal and badge. H.M. the King telegraphed to Lord Jellicoe, Chairman of the Rifle Competition, as follows:—"I most heartily congratulate Miss Foster on winning this prize." His Majesty referred to her success as "a wonderful achievement in the history of rifle shooting."

Miss Foster's victory was extremely popular with the other competitors, and she was given a great ovation. Her performance has added to the list of other notable achievements this year by women, which includes Miss Amy Johnson's flight to Australia, and Miss Winifred Brown's recent victory in the air race round Britain for the King's Cup—British Wireless.

[The King's Prize was won last year by Col. R. M. Blair, of the Canadian Seaforth Highlanders, with a score of 283.]

CANTONESE GIVE CONFIDENCE.

ARRIVAL AT THE CAPITAL WELCOMED.

Nanking, July 21.
Ten divisions of troops are shortly being sent to reinforce the Government forces on the Lunghai and Tsinpu fronts, to which the 60th and 61st Division from Kwangtung, which arrived yesterday, are being despatched to-day to participate in the Government's coming offensive.

The 3rd "Model" Division arrived from Hankow a few days ago and immediately went on to Penghu in order to nip in the bud the threat from Pochow. Several more divisions are expected here in the near future from Hunan and Szechuan.

As the Kwangsi forces and Ironsides have been driven out of Hunan, Ho Ying-ching will shortly take up the command of the Government forces on the Peking-Hankow railway front.

The arrival of the Cantonese Divisions, who are well equipped and believed to be good fighters, has inspired considerable confidence in Government circles.

LICENCE TO WEAR A SHIRT!

PECULIAR STATEMENT BY CHINESE THIEF.

In prosecuting a Chinese passenger on board a Shanshupu ferry, on a charge of stealing a sinplet belonging to a member of the crew, Sub Inspector M.H. Hourihan intimated at Kowloon to-day that the defendant had made a very peculiar statement to the Police, suggesting that he was not quite sane.

The defendant said "I wished to take it and go to Canton because someone told me that my shirt, which I am wearing, must have a licence, so I had no wish to have it."

His Worship said that he did not want to send him to prison for what was a trivial theft and bound the defendant over.

ELECTRIC FITTINGS STOLEN.

VANISH SOON AFTER THEIR INSTALLATION.

Whilst workmen were engaged in installing the electric fittings to new houses in Hankow Road, a thief had gone into the premises which had already been equipped and tore them off the wall. He was leaving the buildings with about $20 worth of electric wiring when he was stopped and arrested.

He was brought before Mr. Whyte Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when Detective Sergeant Poyntz informed his Worship that besides the cost of the fittings the defendant had caused damage to the extent of about $15. There had been many similar larcenies, particularly thefts of wiring from electric and water meters. The defendant was given two months' hard labour.

PUBLIC LATRINE NUISANCE.

WATER CARRIAGE SYSTEM ADVOCATED.

THREE QUESTIONS.

At to-morrow's meeting of the Sanitary Board, Mr. Wong Kwong-tin, pursuant to notice, will ask:

1. Has the attention of the Head of the Sanitary Department been drawn to the recent complaints regarding the insanitary state of the following underground water closets:—(a) at the junction of Pottinger Street and Queen's Road Central, (b) at the junction of D'Aguilar Street and Wellington Street, (c) at the junction of Wellington Street and Queen's Road Central? Are the noxious gases emanating from these places due to an inadequate supply of water or to a lack of supervision?

2. Will the Head of the Sanitary Department consider the abolition of the dry system for all public closets at Hongkong and Kowloon and employ in its stead the system of water carriage?

3. Where the use of dry closets is inevitable, are there any remedies whereby their evil effects may be minimised?

CLEMENCY OF COURT ABUSED.

WOMAN'S OFFENCE WITH A FREE LICENCE.

Indian constables caused a flutter amongst members of the hawking fraternity yesterday by making a number of arrests, these being brought to the attention of the Magistrate (Mr. Lindsell) at the Central Police Court this morning.

An old woman was charged with having chillies in a prohibited area and was let off with a caution in view of her age (she is 60) and of the fact that it was her first offence.

A woman carrying a baby in her arms was arrested by a Sikh who declared that she had been selling vegetables in a prohibited street.

His Worship was reminded that it was the same woman upon whom he bestowed a free licence a month ago.

"Is this the way you abuse the clemency of the Court?" his Worship asked.

The woman was let off with a caution, his Worship observing that he would take into consideration the fact that she had already spent a night in the cell.

Another woman charged with lacking a hawker's licence, said she had no money to secure one. She was cautioned.

THE NAVY TREATY DEBATE.

United States truly safeguarded can and will be negotiated if such a conference is held."

New Reservations.

Two new reservations were introduced by the opposition. Senator Hale proposed one stipulating that the United States doesn't abandon its right to build whatever class of ships desired within the tonnage limitations. The adoption of the reservation would completely upset the agreement between the United States and Great Britain concerning cruisers.

Senator Johnson offered a reservation amending Article 18 of the treaty to permit the United States to build at any time during the life of the pact the last three of the eighteen eight-inch gun cruisers allotted to the United States.

AIR RACE ROUND EUROPE.

BRITISH ENTRANT LEADS AT FIRST STAGE.

BAD WEATHER MET.

Berlin, July 20.

Sixty airmen started from Tempelhof Aerodrome to-day on the international air race round Europe. The course covers 4,700 miles through Belgium, France and England and thence to Paris, Spain, Switzerland, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland and so back to Germany.

The race, which lasts twelve days, is probably the most grueling test of aeroplane endurance. There are seven British entries, namely Lady Bailey, Miss Spooner, Captain Broad, Lord Carberry, Mr. H. Andrews, Mr. A. S. Butler and Mr. S. A. Thor.

There are twenty-seven control points including two in England at Heston-Hounslow and Bristol. Points are awarded for the actual flying speed over the course after deducting the time spent at control points, while reliability also enters largely into consideration when judging the winner.

The engines of the machines were sealed at the start and the important parts must not be changed. Replacement of the under-carriage means disqualification, hence the necessity on the part of the competitors to avoid forced landings.

The purpose of the contest is to evolve an ideal touring machine at a reasonable price. There are 27 compulsory stopping places, approximately 170 miles apart. Only 195 out of 500 marks are allowed for speed, the others being awarded after various technical tests, including comfort, accessibility of parts, landing, capacity, etc.

Last year there were only two British entrants both among to-day's competitors, namely Captain Broad and Miss Spooner. Both last time completed the course well ahead of their rivals and Broad was placed second in the general classification and first in the category for heavier machines. Miss Spooner was then the only woman flying and was placed tenth.

The early stages of the flight, which began in bad weather, were Brunswick, Frankfurt, Calais, Bristol and London. Mr. Butler, flying a Gipsy Moth, was the first competitor to reach Brunswick, his time for the stage being 80 minutes. —Messrs. Broad, Butler, and Thor were all reached Calais, but the weather is extremely bad and the Channel will not be crossed to-night.—Reuter and British Wireless.

NEW REACTIONS IN NORTH.

of a Peking Government it is generally anticipated that large-scale military operations are about to take place in North China, when Marshals Feng Yu-hsiang and Yen Hsi-shan will utilise their full financial and military resources to bring about a decision with Nanking. The future is most uncertain, but Nanking has strong financial resources in Shanghai and Canton.

To Abandon Tsinanfu?

Shanghai, July 19.
The war news for the last few days is confusing. If official communiques issued by the contending factions are correct, the opposing armies have marched through each other on all fronts, with both sides inflicting heavy casualties. The latest official despatch from Hsichowfu state that nearly a whole brigade of Shansi troops were surrounded and disarmed yesterday by Government forces to the north-west of Tsinanfu, on the Tientsin-Pukow Railway near Tsinan.

Severe fighting is still raging near Chowtien, along the Tsinan-fu-Kiaochow Railway, and the Shansi forces in Tsinanfu are making preparations to evacuate. On the Lung-Hai Railway front the Kuomintang troops are attempting another attack on the Government's left wing, near Lushan in western Honan. They were driven off on Thursday after a three-hour battle.

"Owing to various militia corps in Shensi and Kansu Provinces threatening the rear of the Kuomintang Government, Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang," the message adds, "has ordered the transfer of two cavalry divisions from the front to Kansu." —Reuter.

FAIR WEATHER.

The Royal Observatory reports that the depression over China is shallower. A typhoon is situated about 500 miles W.N.W. of Guam, moving N.W. or W.N.W. The local forecast is:—South winds moderate; fair.
